It's really amazing how one day will make big difference. The winds of summer have died down and it was a perfect boat day. The lake was the calmest I have seen in a long time. There is just one little problem. The fish have decided to quit biting. Just put in a load of fish on Thursday. I'm thinking that means that the fish will bite next week during the Lunker Tournament. Only three have signed up so far. The lunker fish will go in the lake @ 6pm on Friday. Don't miss out on the best fishing day of the year.
